

NOA Guidelines for Fostering Jewish Life Annex: Acknowledgements

This document would not have been possible without the dedication, insight, and generosity of the many individuals and organisations who contributed along the way.

We would first like to express our deepest gratitude to Luca Baraldi, whose strategic thinking and philosophical lens helped shape the conceptual foundation of these Guidelines.

To Robin Sclafani, thank you for your warm and enthusiastic leadership and to the entire CEJI team, whose care, precision, and commitment were felt at every step of the process.

Our sincere thanks to all the NOA project partners for being such extraordinary and inspiring travel companions on this journey and to the members of AEPJ, whose tireless work continues to bring to life the vision of a more inclusive and pluralistic Europe.

We are also especially grateful to Katharina von Schnurbein and Pascale Falek for their unwavering institutional support and leadership in the fight against antisemitism and the promotion of Jewish life across Europe.

To Aleksandra Janus and Lena Rubinfeld, thank you for your critical eye, fresh ideas, and generous contributions throughout the process.

Our heartfelt appreciation also goes to everyone who responded to the survey and shared their feedback, helping to ensure that this document reflects the diverse voices and lived experiences of Jewish communities across Europe.

Finally, we dedicate a special thank you to all those individuals who, whether connected to an institution or not, work each day to build a Europe where Jewish life can truly thrive.

With our sincere gratitude,

The AEPJ team
